
VENABLES FOUNDER BELL LEAVING AGENCY

VENABLES BELL & PARTNERS

San Francisco's Venables Bell & Partners is losing co-founder and co-creative director Greg Bell, who may be leaving the industry altogether. Bell founded the independent agency in 2001 with co-creative director Paul Venables and president Bob Molineaux. He was formerly with Cliff Freeman & Partners in New York, where he became a vice president at age 26; and Goodby, Silverstein & Partners. Venables's clients include Audi, Barclays, Coca-Cola and Intel. Founded in 2001, Venables Bell & Partners is an independent San Francisco advertising agency.
