
FORD CEO EXPLAINED ANTI-BAILOUT AD

Chairman Darrell Issa requested that Ford Motor pull the TV commercial criticizing Obama's auto bailout. People from the Obama administration have denied any involvement in the matter. Both Ford and Chrysler accepted the bailouts in 2009. The ad was briefly shown on TV last month and was recently pulled from the company's YouTube page. It is estimated that taxpayers will lose around 14 billion dollars due to funding given to the automotive industry, which started in 2008.
