
CONSERVE HIRES HUYLER AS HR VEEP

ConServe has hired George M. Huyler as Vice President of Human Resources. He joins from Firstsource, where he held the same position. He will have responsibility for employment legislation compliance, payroll, executive staff acquisition & development, compensation systems, benefits analysis, and HR information systems. Huyler is a member of the American Society of Training & Development, and the Society for Human Resource Management. He has been an industry speaker at a number of conferences on HR trends and issues. He holds the professional designation of "Professional in Human Resources" from the Human Resource Certification Institute of the SHRM. He has taught HR professionals at the New York State School of Industrial & Labor Relations at Cornell University. Founded in 1985, ConServe is a leading provider of accounts receivable management and collection services, specializing in customized solutions for colleges and universities, state guaranty agencies, and the US Department of Education.

<https://blog.granted.com/>