

DENISE PEPPARD NAMED CHIEF HR OFFICER FOR CSC

CSC, a provider of technology-enabled solutions and services, has named Denise Peppard vice president and chief human resources officer. She succeeds Nathan (Gus) Siekierka, who will continue to serve as corporate vice president until his retirement early next year. Peppard will be responsible for all the company's global human resources programs and initiatives. CSC has approximately 90,000 employees, according to a company press release.

Prior to joining CSC, Peppard was senior vice president of human resources at Wyeth and Wyeth Pharmaceuticals in New Jersey.

CSC Chairman, President and CEO Michael W. Laphen commented on Peppard.

"Denise brings a wealth of success and experience in the computer, pharmaceutical, biotech and financial services industries to CSC and we're happy that she is joining our executive team," said Laphen. "Her appointment strengthens CSC's leadership team and will provide value to our 92,000 worldwide employees."

Peppard holds an M.B.A. in Finance and Organizational Behavior and a B.B.A. in Accounting from the University of Michigan.
