
NATIONAL HUMAN RESOURCES ASSOCIATION LAUNCHES WEBSITE

The National Human Resources Association (NHRA) has announced the launch of their new website. A tool for the HR industry, the site is offering an array of benefits, services, and networking opportunities for professional members. Taken from their website: "Established in 1951, the National Human Resources Association (NHRA) is focused on advancing the development and leadership of human resource professionals. The mission of our Board is to serve and support our members and affiliates by providing networking forums and professional development programs for their members. Additionally we offer a wide range of on-demand, webcast and audiocast events."

<https://blog.granted.com/>