
KINETIC CONCEPTS APPOINTS NEW SVP, HR

Leading global medical technology company, Kinetic Concepts, Inc. has appointed David Lillback as their new Senior Vice President, Global Human Resources. Lillback will step in immediately into the SVP position. He will head up initiatives to support areas such as global expansion, diversification and organizational readiness. Lillback was formerly the SVP, Human Resources at Mylan, Inc. "David will be one of our key senior leaders to help carry out an exciting global strategy, especially in the important area of attracting and retaining top talent," said Cathy Burzik, president and CEO of Kinetic Concepts. "People-- their intellect, ideas and instincts-- will continue to be the lifeblood of KCI worldwide. It's really important that our programs are competitive, compelling and continue to make us an employer of choice."
