
5 DIFFERENT SIGNS THAT YOU MIGHT BE MISCLASSIFYING CONTRACTORS

The federal government is currently auditing employers to look for misclassifications of workers as independent contractors rather than as employees. There a number of signs that can indicate a misclassification, but ultimately to be a bona fide contractor, a worker must be conducting business for themselves. Employers can protect themselves and avoid penalties for misclassifications in a variety of ways, including through the work contract itself. Read the full article here: 5 signs you may be guilty of misclassifying contractors

<https://blog.granted.com/>