

PROTECTING WORKERS FROM HEAT STRESS

This is an article on how to protect your workers from Heat Stress. There have been deaths from heat stress at work and so employers need to give training on how to prevent heat stress to the workers. Some of the main ideas to prevent worker related heat stress include: proper training for all supervisors, proper hydration, a heat related training for the workers, worker-rest schedules for heat weather, access to cool areas, and monitoring all workers. If we keep training and looking out for others, you should have a good summer with no problems. For more details on the article Click Here Looking for employment opportunities? Click here.
