
COCA COLA BRINGING JOBS TO MILTON, PENNSYLVANIA

Coca Cola is building a new drop site in Milton, Pennsylvania, that will employ 30 to 40 people when completed. The site will be used to store products while they are being transported throughout the Williamsport, Sunbury and Milton areas. This comes as welcome news to Milton, where the unemployment rate is over 10%. Coca Cola is also moving a sales center out of Sunbury and combining it with operations in Harrisburg, displacing about 50 workers. The company believes those employees will either be able to transfer to Harrisburg or elsewhere in the company.
