This move will translate into 200 new jobs over the next three years. The distribution building comprises a total of 457,452-square-feet and is located at Nashville's Southeast Industrial submarket. A part of the larger Mid South Logistec Center, the building includes 78 loading docks and approximately 60 drive-in bays. The lease agreement is calling for a 30-month term, with OHL taking occupancy as early as this quarter.
