
SIGNAGE COMPANY COMING TO SOUTH CAROLINA, BRINGING 135 JOBS

Signage company Coast Sign Inc. is creating 135 new jobs in Greenville County, S.C. According to a report on Foxcarolina.com, the company is spending $2.4 million to fund the expansion. "Demand from our customers has grown substantially, and this new facility will help us meet that demand and increase our market share," said Coast Sign President Charlie Alemi. Hiring for the positions will begin in about six weeks. The facility is scheduled to open in the first quarter of 2011. According to the report, anyone interested in the positions can find more information by calling 714-999-1917. Coast Sign installs signs nationwide for a range of businesses, particularly in the financial, automotive, and hospitality industries. The company has additional facilities in California and Tennessee along with a project management office in Arizona.
