
ENERFLOW INDUSTRIES INC. LOOKING AT OKLAHOMA EXPANSION

Oilfield equipment manufacturer Enerflow Industries Inc. may potentially add up to 500 jobs in Broken Arrow, Oklahoma over the next five years. As much as $6.19 million in payroll tax rebates will be given to the company by the Oklahoma Department of Commerce if their hiring goals are met. "We think that it's very achievable," said general manager of Enerflow's Broken Arrow factory, John Powers. "We feel like if the markets continue, we could even be at that number in the next two to three years." Welders, mechanics, designers and automotive electricians will be the main job positions the company is looking to fill.
