

HOME PRICES TO HIT ANOTHER LOW

Currently the housing market is about to experience what is known as a "double dip". That means that housing prices are about to hit another all time low without a period of real recovery. The partial recovery is blamed on government misinformation. The bad housing market is putting more and more people at risk of foreclosure which, in turn causes the housing market to falter even worse. Read the full article here: Home Prices

<https://blog.granted.com/>