

---

CHRYSLER TRYING TO FIGURE OUT HOW TO REPAY GOVERNMENT LOANS

Chrysler owes more than $7 billion to the US government due to a much-publicized round of auto industry bailouts. In order to meet their repayment obligations to the government, Chrysler is considering raising $6 billion in new debt. Chrysler has been slow to repay the government loan due to a high interest rate of up to 20%.

Read the original article here: Chrysler may restructure refinancing terms: sources

<https://blog.granted.com/>