
JOB MARKET STILL STRUGGLING TO RECOVER

All the efforts put by the government hoping to see a boom in the job market were proven to be useless and gave no results. Although the job market has shown some improvement with the increase of 200,000 jobs per month for three straight months, the momentum has still decreased. High oil prices and Japan's earthquake and nuclear crisis have added to the problems of unemployed Americans.

Read the full article here:

Scary signs for jobs

<https://blog.granted.com/>