

---

ECONOMY IS STILL SLOWLY RECOVERING

Years after the Great Recession, the economy still seems to be recovering in BBQ style, meaning low and slow. There has not been substantial growth in Gross Domestic Product over the past two years. The only remedy for unemployment would be companies hiring people like they had fired them during the recession period. The lowered gas prices seems to be the only consoling news now.

Read the full article here:

Still a BBQ recovery: Low and slow

<https://blog.granted.com/>