
JOB OPENINGS FALL AS FIRMS RELUCTANT TO HIRE

With the United States economy struggling to rebound from a devastating recession, people who have been out of work for long periods of time are still struggling to try and find full-time employment to support themselves and their families. Many businesses have once again stopped hiring, and those out of work are left wondering if they'll find gainful employment anytime soon.

Read the original article here:

Fewer jobs for unemployed workers

<https://blog.granted.com/>