
UNINSURED ADULT KIDS' HEALTH CARE NOW COVERED, BUT PARENTS WON'T PAY

Given recent additions to health reform policies, uninsured adult kid's parents can now remain on their parent's health care plans until the age of 26. However, this reform was not received well by the public. Many parents are unhappy about the change, according to a survey conducted by eHealthInsurance, and much more pessimistic about the change than a similar study showed the previous year.

Read the original article here:

Parents won't pay uninsured adult kids' health care

<https://blog.granted.com/>