
PERU PROTESTERS SHUT AIRPORT AFTER DEADLY CLASH

Thousands of protesters opposed to mining and energy projects in southern Peru took over a commercial airport on Saturday, as the government struggled to restore calm a day after five died in a clash with police. Herbert Roses, a police general told Reuters some 3,000 protesters had occupied the runway at the Juliaca airport in the region of Puno and that several hundred police officers retreated to another clash.

Read the original article here: Peru protesters shut airport after deadly clash

<https://blog.granted.com/>