

16-YEAR-OLD ENTREPRENEUR STRIDES TO SUCCESS

Genius are born from scrap. Although it seems ridiculous, 16-year old Tara Haughton has proved that any small idea from scrap could lead to big business, if given proper thought. She is from a small village in County Kildaire, and hails from an economically affected family with five brothers and is very fond of wearing red-soled Christian Louboutins. To know how this small Irish girl has succeeded in international market by creating adhesive stickers for women's shoes please refer to Aol Jobs. Read the full article here: [16-Year-Old Entrepreneur Strides to Success With Red-Soled Stickers \[Video\]](#)

<https://blog.granted.com/>