
MULTI-CITY TRAINING INITIATIVE FOR GREEN JOBS LAUNCHED

Four major sectors, construction, auto technology, manufacturing and utilities will become Green, thanks to a Green initiative by Jobs for the Future, a non-profit organization dedicated to education and workforce development to provide aggressive training to people in different cities interested in Green jobs. The U.S. Department of Labor has awarded an $8 million grant to the organization. Read the full article here: Non-profit launches multi-city training initiative for green jobs

<https://blog.granted.com/>