

---

KENT STATE PROFESSORS HITCH $7 MILLION TO EXPAND COMPANY

Kent Displays, a private company seems to have come up with a completely new product called a Boogie Board. It allows users to write and erase on a screen the size of a sheet of paper. They appear to be doing well as they have just received $7million in funding. These new eWriters are expected to cost between $40 and $60 and are meant to replace paper and notepad. They are expected to be well received by consumers worldwide. Read the full article here: Kent State professors snag \$7 million to expand company

<https://blog.granted.com/>