
HOW TO GAIN CONFIDENCE IN NETWORKING WITH EIGHT TIPS

Some important tips to network with people with confidence include asking questions. This is especially significant in cases when you are dealing with people from areas unknown to you. You must know your purpose for networking with the person and should do your homework like knowing about the recent happenings in the person's industry. A few other tips include requesting an interview, setting lunch dates, trying to give him what you have first, bringing a "wingman" to the meeting and using sites like Twitter to know the person better.
