

JOB SEARCH A CHALLENGE FOR VETERANS

This article is about the struggles that veterans have when trying to find civilian jobs. Most veterans believe that with all the tours in Iraq and what they have done for our country, along with their extended education, that it would be a breeze finding a job. But, once home, they are surprised to see that that isn't the case. The soldiers in the article are from Illinois where they are trying to make it easy for soldiers to find jobs, and they have put many programs in place to help the veterans in their job search.
