
CHRISTOPHER “BIZ” STONE NOW AS ADVISER TO M.B.A.S

Twitter Inc. co-founder Christopher “Biz” Stone was dropped out from Northeastern University and University of Massachusetts, but now he will be offering lectures to M.B.A students at the University of California at Berkeley’s Hass School of Business, on topics such as entrepreneurship, innovation and creativity development. He has been speaking at Hass since 2008 and he thinks that, it will be good to share some of his experiences with the students. Read the full article here: Biz Stone Goes Back to College, This Time as Adviser to M.B.A.s

<https://blog.granted.com/>