

---

FOR SOME JOB SEEKERS, MILITARY IS LAST RESORT

Men and women who find themselves facing tough job markets in the United States, are more and more turning to the armed forces to earn a paycheck. People, fed up with low paying or part-time jobs are helping the military meet recruitment goals more easily than ever before. The military helps them support their families, earn job experience, and even provide them and their families with healthcare benefits. Although it forces families to spend long periods apart, for some people, it is the only remaining option that they have.

Read the original article here:

Job seekers join the military as last resort

<https://blog.granted.com/>