

NARROW TRADE GAP STRENGTHENS U.S. ECONOMIC GROWTH

Exporters and importers gap in US had narrowed in July to $44.8 billion. In June, the trade deficit was on $51.6 billion. According to economists, this is seen as a welcome sign for the recovery because a narrower trade gap strengthens U.S. economic growth. Exports totaled to $178 billion in July, which is $6.2 billion high from the prior month. But imports fall to $500 million, totaling $222.8 billion and resulting in the deficit. Read this article here: U.S. trade gap narrows

<https://blog.granted.com/>