

---

5 TIPS ON MAINTAINING SOCIAL CONTACTS WHILE IN CAREER TRANSITION

Most people have no problem celebrating their yearly work anniversaries, but often forget essential duties before saying goodbye to their job. One should remember to tie up loose ends and notify others that you won't be around. This is not only polite, but professional. Post your departures on LinkedIn, and simultaneously remove any evidence of social media from your previous job. Remember to give advanced notice to your employer and keep in mind that proprietary information you might have encountered, is not your property.

Read the full article here:

5 Tips On Maintaining Social Contacts While In Career Transition - Forbes

<https://blog.granted.com/>