

CAREER TIPS FOR JOB SEEKERS - ALLAFRICA.COM

It was stated in this column that it is important for a job applicant to write a good job application letter and to write a saleable CV whenever one is applying for a job. But considering how some job application candidates, some workers and some employers apply themselves, one wonders whether critical issues are considered before employing someone or during employment. When competition becomes stiff to such an extent that they struggle to survive, organisations will start looking for genuine professionals to help them survive in a cut-throat competitive environment.
