

GUN MAKERS IN CONN. WOODED BY TEXAS GOVERNOR

With new gun laws in effect after the school shooting in Newtown, Connecticut, Texas governor Rick Perry has come to the state to tour gun factories. Perry said in a speech at the factories that they should consider relocating to Texas because of the less restrictive gun policies they have. Perry also pointed out that taxes are lower in his state. Many people believe that moving the factories and the skilled labor force is not probably possible at this time. For more details on the article Click Here
