

FED MEETING - KEEPING MARKETS IN CHECK

Investors seem to be keeping their fingers crossed as the two-day policy meeting of the US Federal Reserve is about to get underway. The outcome of the meet is widely expected to have a huge influence on how the investors will view the immediate future of the US monetary policy. It was the remarks made by Fed chairman Ben Bernanke in May that has caused uncertainty among investors, who are now hoping for a clear line to emerge at the end of the meeting. What the investors appear to be looking for is a clearer line in the accompanying FED statement. For more details on the article Click Here

<https://blog.granted.com/>