NEUSTAR HIRES CHRISTINE BRENNAN AS HR VP

Christine Brennan has been named the Senior Vice President of Human Resources for Neustar Inc. Neustar is a company that provides real-time information for the industries of the internet, telecommunications, entertainment, marketing and advertising. Brennan will report to Lisa Hook, the president and CEO of the company. The appointment of Brennan takes effect immediately. She previously worked as the Senior Vice President of Worldwide Human Resources for Verisign. "Our employees drive Neustar's innovation and growth," said Lisa Hook. "Christine's wealth of human resources experience and her successful track record in implementing talent management and acquisition strategies will ensure we continue to attract and retain the best and the brightest in the industry." Brennan implemented a global human resources strategy while working at Verisign. The program was focused on the management of talent, the acquisition of talent, employee engagement, compensation and benefits, management of performance and corporate social responsibility. "Neustar has a tremendous reputation for delivering quality services and for the caliber of its talent," said Christine Brennan. "It's an ideal time to join the company and I look forward to working with its talented group of people." Brennan previously worked as the Head of Group Human Resources for the Bank of Ireland, which is headquartered in Dublin. While working there, Brennan worked in conjunction with the board to hire a new CEO while also implementing an agenda for managing talent. The agenda focused on recruitment from outside the company to go along with development internally. Brennan also worked as the Human Resources Director for Barclay's PLC's Global Retail and Commercial Banking business, which is headquartered in London. Brennan has also worked in human resources with AT&T and British Telecommunications. Brennan earned her Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the University of Maryland.
