The World Wide Web is a global market, multilingual and multinational. If you have a Website or want to market a product or service, this information should cross national and even local boundaries like Canada for instance, with French and English spoken, but the language barrier is a huge puzzle for websites that want to translate their content. It is expensive to hire language translators, especially for all the languages that are spoken worldwide and to translate every word on even small websites, which is why automated "Specialized Software Translators" is becoming very popular. Despite some misleading and even hilarious translations or in some cases insulting translations. The software often produces just enough translation for people to make some sense of the information being written on these websites.

Babylon, Systransoft and Multilingual Marketer are great software programs! If you are a website owner and have a product or service that you are trying to market on the Internet is English only, then you are missing about 65% and growing of the Internet market! Now, you can easily tap into foreign markets at the SAME time while increasing your SEO rankings, to good to be true, not so with this breakthrough software. In gearing up to make multilingual versions of all your websites using this incredible software, you will not only access whole new markets with tens of millions of new people to market too, but you will look bigger and brighter to search engines and to the Internet community overall.

There online facts will speak for themselves and these blowout facts will shock you. Warning, ignore them at your own risk, because your online competitors will not.

One fact is 65% and growing of the World's Internet surfers speak English but prefer to do their searching and browsing on the World Wide Web in their own native languages. They go to search engines, and prefer to input keywords in their native languages rather than in English. This only makes sense to a logical person, if you spoke and read Spanish would you enter keywords in English? That is why your targeted Internet leads cannot find your web site, because the keywords that you use are not translated into their languages. But remember, your foreign targeted leads can speak and read English. The only problem here is that they cannot find your website. So if they did, they would be able to benefit from it and even order your products from you! The statistics show that the amount of people speaking English and Spanish are roughly tied for third place in the world with Chinese being the number one language spoken worldwide.

Second fact is that 22% of Americans who search and browse the World Wide Web use Non-English languages. There are 202.45 million Americans now online, according to InternetWorld Stats as of July, 2004. These are old statistics by now this number is much larger. There are 45 million Americans whose native language is not English. They access the Internet in their own native languages. That is a huge market that you are missing out of, if your website is only in English.

Third fact is Google the top and preferred search engine of choice with 50% share of the world surfers provides multilingual platforms and crawls web pages in 35 different languages. Do not be fooled by experts who tell you that they can get your website a Top 10 ranking in any search engines based on any keywords with their special SEO software. The scams out there are many, and they claim to teach you how to get No.1 ranking in Google easily! Most of them will get you a number 1 ranking for the keyword "grandizerzorilla", but that is about all they will do for you. The Internet is moving at such an incredible rate that nowadays, most of the English websites are fully optimized for all the common keywords. That is why your website has to be in other languages, keywords in these languages are still available and are waiting to be optimized on your web pages.

Fourth fact is Less than 5% of web pages are non-English and their Google PR is Low in many cases! The fact is only a few foreign language web pages are available in Google. What an opportunity not to be missed! And the last fact is Google Filters are Less 'Sensitive', 'Strict' and 'Intelligent' when dealing with Non-English web pages. Do not let these 'too-good-to-be-true' figures that you read about on the Internet deceive you into thinking that Google spiders do not index non-English websites. This is from some confidential and informed sources, it seems some search engine spiders cannot distinguish the overlapping content or even garbage pages written in foreign languages!
