

---

JOBS MINISTER RESPONDS TO JOBS ADVERTISING CRITICISM

Pat Bell, the Minister of Jobs, defends his jobs plan and says Bruce Ralston has gotten things mixed up. Bell suggests that ads need to air on local channels versus in other markets. He goes on to say that most of the advertising is done internationally, and if asked, BC would support local communities.

Read the full article here:

BC's Jobs Minister responds to NDP criticism over jobs advertising. - CKNW News Talk 980

<https://blog.granted.com/>