

---

GRANTED MAKES YOUR JOB SEARCH EASY

Granted is one of the leading job boards on the internet today. It has become so popular that thousands of new jobs are posted each week in various industries. You will never want to use another job board again once you browse the positions available on Granted. We understand how difficult searching for a job can be, especially when you are unemployed. Not hearing back from companies can be a confidence killer when searching for a job. If you use Granted, which is completely free, you will come across thousands of employers looking for top talent to hire. So, what makes the site so easy to use? For starters, it has a very appealing design. There is a search bar on the main page where you can enter keywords for jobs that interest you. There are not hundreds of links on the homepage for job postings like other job boards. There are multiple ways to find a job on Granted. They include searching via a keyword, a location, a company name or a job title. If you don't know any of this and just want to find available jobs, you can click on the link titled 'browse jobs.' When you click the 'browse jobs' link you will be taken to a page that is split in half. The page offers jobs sorted by category and by state. How much easier can this get? Well, if you bookmark the page on your browser, you will be able to visit the site as often as possible. This will make finding your dream job even easier.

<https://blog.granted.com/>