

RESUME POSTING - TOP 10 WAYS TO GET NOTICED USING YOUR RESUME

1. Creating a Good Resume: This is essential to any job application. Sometimes this is where you win half the job search battle. Don't confuse this with getting a resume full of experience. Even if you are a fresher it's the way you organize your CV that will matter. Stress on your strong points in your resume. This helps. Check out various websites that offer you tips on resume writing. 2. Customizing your resume for different job applications: Different jobs have different requirements and it is hence very essential that you customize your resume for each of them. 3. Emphasize on all your past achievements: It is very important to draw your recruiter's attention to all your past achievements. 4. Keeping it short and to the point: Let your resume be very short and crisp with all the important info. 5. Writing a Good Cover Letter: Sometimes an employer will throw away your resume without reading it if you write a terrible cover letter. Keep it short and simple and write only things that are necessary. Make your application details clear and precise. It is essential. 6. Staying up to date: It is very essential that you stay up to date with all the industry events so that you can apply at the right spot on the right time. 7. Resume Posting: Post your resume on various websites and you will get a very good response from these sites with employers constantly keeping an eye on the resumes that meet their needs. Remember, the more sites you post on, the better chances you have. 8. Resume Blasting: This will send your CV across to all the jobsites of any importance across the net. Once again this helps your chances a lot and it can make life a lot easier for you. The more places you apply the higher chance you have of being noticed. Check out Resumeboomer.com for more information on this. 9. Applying through a Recruitment Agency: This is always a good idea at least in the steep competition of today. Recruiting agencies usually are contacted by the recruiters for resumes related to their requirements and they in turn oblige giving the same. If you are enlisted with a recruiting agency you have a much higher chance of getting noticed. Most of these recruitment agencies are usually free. Online recruiting agencies are getting popular by the day. 10. Talking to Resume Managers: Talk to resume managers with reference to your resume and specific job requirement. They are specialists in their field and are sure to help you out with a solution.

<https://blog.granted.com/>