

---

WHY SHOULD I POST A RESUME ON GRANTED?

If you have ever visited Granted to find a job, you might have noticed that there is a link at the top of the homepage that allows you to post your resume. Have you clicked on this link yet? If not, get to it immediately. The sooner you post your resume to the site, the sooner you will be found by potential employers. How does this help job seekers in today's highly competitive market? The answer is simple; it puts you ahead of the pack. Searching for a job takes a lot of luck and timing combined. You need to be one of the first handful of people to submit a resume or an application if you want to be scheduled for an interview. By posting your resume to a site where employers post jobs, you are putting yourself out there to be found. Even if you are not actively seeking a new job, putting yourself out there can help further your career. You will be able to speak with employers and find out what they are looking for in candidates. This will then help you educate yourself on the industry and what jobs you are best qualified for at this time. Use the post resume feature on Granted to your advantage.

<https://blog.granted.com/>