

YAHOO'S JOB CUTS GOOD NEWS FOR INVESTORS?

Most of the companies have decided to cut down costs, which is going to affect many workers, as their salary is going to be reduced. Many major companies have announced restructurings this April. Companies like Sony and Yahoo have already announced to restructure. This news has affected the share market initially. But what investors need are stable and profitable companies. Yahoo's job cuts is a sure sign it's still in the process of recovering. So investors are just waiting for signs that the strategy is really working.

Read the full article here:

Ask Matt: Is Yahoo cutting jobs good news for investors? - USA TODAY

<https://blog.granted.com/>