

JOBLESS CLAIMS' BIGGEST DROP IN NEARLY A YEAR

Finally there is something for Americans to cheer or feel relieved about, after serious concerns were raised over a possible weakening economic and labor conditions. That the U.S. job market has now brightened, raises fresh hopes of a quick economic recovery and more job opportunities. Although the Labor Department has not cited any reason for the sharp fall in jobless filings last week, analysts don't find it hard to ascertain the cause. Read the full article here:
