

INTERDIGITAL TO CUT 100 PEOPLE

InterDigital, a King of Prussia, Pennsylvania-based wireless technology company, will eliminate 100 jobs as it ceases further development of products that use its SlimChip mobile broadband modem technology. The job cuts will occur at the company's three locations, which are in King of Prussia; Melrose, New York; and Montreal, Canada. InterDigital employed 379 at the end of last year.

<https://blog.granted.com/>