

TEACHER LAYOFFS NOT TO HAPPEN AFTER EVAL DEAL COLLAPSE

Today Chancellor Dennis Walcott announced that the collapse of teacher appraisal talks comes with many costs, but the teacher sacking won't be among them. Last week, by a state deadline with the teachers union, the Department of Education is set to forgo $240 million in increased state school aid after it failed to agree on a new evaluation system. Read the full article here: Walcott: Teacher layoffs not on table after eval deal collapse Want to see which Teacher jobs are available near you? Click here to see.

<https://blog.granted.com/>