

STATE BUDGET CRISIS LEADS TO LAYOFFS IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS SCHOOLS

This article tells about the State Budget Crisis Leads to Layoffs in Southern Illinois Schools. The first settlers migrated from the Upland South, traveling by the Ohio River, and the region was affiliated with the southern agricultural economy and rural culture. Some settlers even owned slaves before the territory was organized and it was prohibited. Many areas developed an economy based on coal mining. Except for the counties in the St. Louis MSA, much of Southern Illinois is still culturally affiliated with western Kentucky, southwestern Indiana, and southeast Missouri, and the people speak with similar accents. Read the full article here: State Budget Crisis Leads to Layoffs in Southern Illinois Schools Want to see which Education jobs are available near you? Click here to see.

<https://blog.granted.com/>